The Trustees present their report and the examined financial statements of the charity for the year ended 31 March 2024. The Trustees have adopted the provisions of the Statement of Recommended Practice (SORP) "Accounting and Reporting by Charities" in preparing the annual report and financial statements of the charity.

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the accounting policies set out in notes to the financial statements and comply with the charity's governing document, the Charities Act 2011 as amended by the Charities Act 2022, and the Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their financial statements in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland published in October 2019.

Trustees who have served during the year are listed on page 1.

Objects and activities for the public benefit

The objects of the charity as set out in its governing document are to provide for the public benefit, the promotion of good health and to advance education in particular, but not exclusively, by:

- 1. creating a network which will engage and support the wide diversity of mental health service users and survivors across England in order to strengthen the user voice;
- 2. facilitating active links between service user groups and individuals;
- 3. building capacity for service user groups; and
- 4. brokering and facilitating access to service users for purposes of influencing and informing policy-makers and planners.

The Trustees confirm that they have referred to the Charity Commission's Guidance on public benefit when reviewing the charity's aims and objectives and in planning future activities. The objects are achieved through a variety of activities, including:

- building capacity in our membership;
- strengthening local, regional and specialist networks;
- capacity building and information sharing;
- influencing mental health policy and practice;
- representing and relaying members' views at high level mental health policy spaces and communicating practice, policy and legislative changes back to members; and
- promoting better service user involvement and Public and Patient Involvement (PPI) practices in research, practice and policy.

Review of achievements and performance: How our activities delivered public benefit

National Survivor User Network (NSUN) is an England-wide network of people and groups with lived experience of mental ill-health, distress and trauma. It is an infrastructure organisation and sector voice for user-led groups that work to support the mental health of those in their communities, who live at the intersection of multiple, compounding inequalities and marginalisations. NSUN's aims are to create and strengthen links between individuals and groups; support and promote user-led groups and initiatives; and influence and inform policy and decision makers. All NSUN staff and Trustees have lived experience of mental ill-health, distress or trauma which may include racial trauma.

2023/2024 Activities

NSUN's stated aims for 2023/24 were as follows:

- following on from the CIO conversion, to develop and deliver a refreshed membership offer for groups and individuals;
- continuing to promote and amplify members' perspectives, voices and campaigns through communications;
- working in partnership with three youth organisations to deliver 'Reimagining Safety', a project on young people and safeguarding;
- working in partnership with a member to develop a member-led research project on menstrual health needs in psychiatric settings;
- creating a series of connective spaces for grassroots groups working on migrant justice and mental health; and
- delivering a second grants programme through Synergi and developing and delivering an offer to support grassroots groups in the Synergi network.

Progress against these aims is described below, structured around the four themes of NSUN's Theory of Change: Knowledge, Collaboration, Voice, and Resourcing.

Knowledge: Building, amplifying and distributing the knowledge that is held by people with lived experience of mental ill-health, distress and trauma

NSUN builds, amplifies and distributes the knowledge that is held by people with lived experience of mental ill-health, distress and trauma, by platforming members' voices in a variety of ways – including through the weekly bulletin, blogs and articles, supporting members' research, and sharing members' work and voices in a variety of contexts.

An aim for 23/24 was to work in partnership with three youth organisations to deliver the first year of our three-year Reimagining Safety project. We worked with young people who are migrants, refugees and asylum seekers via a partnership with Revoke, and with young people who hear voices and see visions in partnership with Voice Collective. We also partnered with Act Build Change as a learning and practice partner, bringing expertise in facilitation and radical education for community organising. NSUN coordinated the project, building on our previous work exploring safety and mental health and using our position as an infrastructure organisation to challenge sector norms. Through workshops with young people and staff we developed insights into ways of creating safety, choice and agency and identified eight key principles for this work, due to be published in Summer 2024.

Another aim for 23/24 was to work in partnership with a member to develop a member-led research project on menstrual health needs in psychiatric inpatient settings. We coordinated this project into how menstrual health needs are met, or not met, for people in inpatient settings, an area around which there is currently minimal research. We worked with the member to develop a small-scale research study which aimed to develop an understanding of peoples' experiences and co-develop guidance to address barriers identified. We supported the member to get ethical approval from the NHS Health Research Authority and to develop the research surveys and participation information sheets, advertised involvement opportunities through our communications channels, and made payments to those participating in interviews and focus groups in line with our participation payments policy. We also paid for the option of support spaces for participants after they had taken part in the research. The resulting research report is due to be published in summer 2024.

In 23/24, we commissioned an NSUN member to carry out a research project into the meaning of "community" in the mental health lived experience landscape, funded via Mind's Communities Team. We supported the development of the research methods and made payments to participants in interviews and focus groups. Published in March 2024, the report, 'Exploring "community" & the mental health lived experience landscape', explores whether those with lived experience of mental ill-health, distress and trauma could be considered a "community", and how the term "community" is assumed or forced upon us from outside. It aims to inform and challenge work focused on engaging communities and lived experience, exploring the complexities of claiming, building, representing, and working with communities: how people can be harmed, who is left behind, and how the terms "community" and "lived experience" can be co-opted for interests other than our own.

In 23/24, NSUN commissioned and published twenty-five pieces from members, including blogs, book and zine reviews (for example, a review of Nicole Lacey's "Poems from Inside" zine by Heather Cobb), and longer-form articles/opinion pieces on our Members' Blog. This included two themed series of pieces, one around creativity and mental health which involved interviewing artists and creatives working on themes of mental ill-health, distress, and trauma (for example "An interview with emerging outsider artist, Mud"), and one around safety and care in healthcare settings (for example, "Surviving restrictive and least restrictive practice: Hold me up, don't hold me down" by Fruit Bat). Other pieces touch on important topics in the lived experience landscape, such as lived experience and class ("Navigating class as a lived experience advocate" by Taimour Ahmed), and concerns around the rise of so-called 'trauma-informed care' ("We should be sceptical of trauma-informed care" by Chloe Apter). Longer-form pieces often offer responses to policy and legal developments in and around mental health care, sitting alongside NSUN's own organisational responses, briefings, and statements on such issues, such as "Can single-sex wards prevent sexual violence in mental health hospitals?" by Nima Cas Hunt, and "Legislating about us, without us: virtue signaling, self-harm, and the Criminal Justice Bill" by Courtney Buckler.

These member pieces and significant amounts of other relevant external news, events, and opportunities from across the mental health landscape, with a focus on user-led activity, are showcased in NSUN's weekly bulletin to members. In the 23/24 annual NSUN membership survey, the bulletin was the most common theme raised in feedback, with respondents praising the events, articles and opportunities advertised in the bulletin, and several individuals crediting the bulletin as helping them gain paid work or research opportunities.

Respondents described the bulletin as a "precious, precious link" to the national lived experience community which provides members with a "beacon of hope" and sense of community, as well as increasing awareness around intersectional issues within the lived experience landscape. More than three quarters of respondents (79%) had connected with other user-led groups, events, campaigns, projects, or involvement opportunities as a result of NSUN's communications and resources. One member shared: "The weekly bulletins make me feel connected to the mad community and other people with lived experience. Reading them helps me feel hopeful about the work that is going on. Also they are helpful when I don't feel able to connect via social media. Thank you for creating them." Another said: "I find the newsletter really helpful for involvement opportunities and just to keep connected to an identity which is important to me - I find a lot of NGO work relating to mental health isolating because it doesn't reflect my rarer experiences and I think NSUN does this well."

In 23/24 we also began further sharing and archiving external content (that is not commissioned by NSUN for the Members' Blog, for example, but shared by us in our bulletins) by people with lived experience through our monthly bulletin articles and blogs roundup posts on our website. They contain all the articles, blogs, and other forms of media that we share in each of a given month's four bulletins, with a focus on first person pieces written or made by people within and beyond our membership, as well as relevant articles about news and policy in mental health from sources such as Disability News Service. We began posting these roundups to bring together, amplify, and archive current, lived experience-focused voices and perspectives in mental health.

We are also collaborating with Mental Elf to commission a series of research blogs written by people with lived experience of mental ill-health, distress and trauma. The blogs summarise and respond to recently published mental health research and explore what that research means from the perspective of someone with lived experience. The first blog was published in 23/24, the rest are to follow in 24/25.

In July 2023, NSUN began offering monthly Network Meetings, open to all NSUN members and themed around particular topics suggested by the membership or spotlighting particular areas of NSUN's work or members' work. Topics have included: a panel on welfare reform with speakers from Greater Manchester Coalition of Disabled People and Black Activists Rising Against Cuts; a discussion about how the funding landscape impacts user-led work; hearing from organisers involved in StopOxevision; and discussing the findings and impacts of "Exploring 'community' and the mental health lived experience landscape". Members have shared that they've found these spaces engaging, useful and informative; one member shared, "[I] heard perspectives I had not considered before. It was inspiring to see and hear from different people who care about these issues. I felt less alone."

Collaboration: Creating collaborative spaces with members and partners through coalitions and networks to build momentum and sustainability for the work; building nurturing conditions within mental health work that prioritise care

NSUN creates collaborative spaces with members and partners through coalitions and networks to build momentum and sustainability for the work.

An aim for 23/24 was, following on from the CIO conversion in June 23, to develop and deliver a refreshed membership offer for groups and individuals. We have done this through many areas of our work in 23/34 that are outlined throughout this report, such as offering intensive support for member-led research projects and launching our monthly network meetings for members to connect with NSUN and each other across various topics and themes (see 'Knowledge' section, above), amplifying, supporting, and resourcing member-led campaigns (see 'Voice' section, below), and providing resources and free training opportunities to members (see 'Resourcing' section, below).

NSUN held its annual members' event in November 2023. Alongside a business meeting (where the NSUN Trustees and staff presented on NSUN's work over the last 12 months, gave an overview of the financial statements for the previous year, and took questions from members), we held three panel discussion style sessions for members, with a variety of guest speakers. These were: 'Peer support and activism: radical roots & radical futures', 'Surveillance & data sharing in mental health care', and 'Abolition & mental health with Synergi: reimagining & building alternatives'. There were more than 150 member attendances across the day's four sessions. Details and recordings of the sessions, along with the annual member's creative exhibition, can be found here.

The vast majority of attendees rated the enjoyability and accessibility of all sessions as 'Excellent' and selected 'Yes' in response to questions about whether the events reflected their interests and helped them to feel connected to other members. Providing feedback on the session on peer support, one attendee said: "[I] loved the panel and the discussion around activism and peer support and reading such collective power in the chat. I feel connected to others who want to ensure the history [of peer support] is not lost". Of the session on surveillance and data sharing, one attendee said: "Amazing range of speakers and so good to see connections being made". Providing feedback on the session with Synergi, one attendee said: "Chairing full of love, connection, and insight... human connections with exceptional speakers, [a] powerful experience of unity". The business meeting was described as "well structured and organised", and another member fed back that they were "always impressed by the principled way in which NSUN works".

NSUN's collaborative work also includes hosting two grassroots collectives and networks, North East together and misery, and acting as a fiscal host for the United Friends and Families Campaign (UFFC).

North East together (NEt) is the Regional Network for people with lived experience of mental health conditions living in the North East of England. Since the launch at a conference in April 2009 attended by over 150 of the region's service users, carers and workers in the mental health field, we have carried out a variety of initiatives usually led by our members letting us know what our priorities should be. For example, our Welfare Reform Action Group was set up in response to the 2010 Coalition Government's changes to the benefits system, and campaigned to highlight the injustices of Welfare Reform and advocated for a fairer system for all.

In the last few years, we have developed some strong relationships with the statutory sector, and in particular with Public Health England and The Northern Clinical Network. We have worked closely with these and other partners in various pieces of work on a regional level.

misery is a hosted project benefiting from the container of NSUN's policies, legal structure and accounts. Over the year misery successfully delivered their monthly 'misery medicine: plant magic' programme that saw hundreds of queer, trans, intersex, Black, people of colour (QTIBPOC) visiting, connecting, and learning about different green spaces in London and foraging for herbal remedies found there. misery partnered with various mental health, arts, and social justice organisations and projects to deliver a range of projects, including a film screening at the historic Rio Cinema in East London, a sober party in Edinburgh in conjunction with Rhubaba and an adventurous nightwalk curation alongside The Hive educational center in Epping Forest and William Morris Gallery. Towards the end of 2023 misery introduced a bimonthly online grief space offering facilitated by author and somatic practitioner Camille Sapara Barton. misery has also contributed to magazines, journals, workshops and panels, appearing as part of the Rehearsing Freedoms festival by Healing Justice London, at Sable Studio in Leeds and at Dialled In festival. In September 2024, misery will transition into a fiscal hosting agreement only.

The United Friends and Families Campaign (UFFC) is a coalition of those affected by deaths in police, prison and psychiatric custody, and supports others in similar situations. Established in 1997 initially as a network of Black families, over recent years the group has expanded and now includes the families and friends of people from varied ethnic and cultural backgrounds. NSUN is acting as fiscal host for UFFC in order for them to access a grant of £80,000 from the Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust. During the year UFFC has run a small grants scheme aimed at funding projects supporting younger people which has been supported by NSUN's Communities and Grants Officer.

Voice: Building an alternative approach to mental health policy work, challenging traditional silos, unjust hierarchies of evidence, and harmful demands for data and visibility. This comes at a time where the external environment is one of hostile and unjust structures, systems and legislation.

An aim for 23/24 was continuing to promote and amplify members' perspectives, voices and campaigns through our communications. We are pleased to have worked to support numerous member campaigns in 23/24. One such campaign is the Stop Oxevision campaign, a grassroots, lived-experience led campaigning group working to halt the rollout of surveillance technology in psychiatric inpatient settings due to concerns around the implementation of a blanket restrictive practice with implications around consent, privacy, and dignity. We worked with members of the campaign to publish an open letter and a petition on the NSUN website. We continuously amplified the campaigning work of Stop Oxevision across our communications channels, and have provided advice, guidance, and connections to other useful organisations. We offered the group a small grant towards their time spent working on the campaign, and other campaign costs.

Another member-led campaign we supported in 23/24 was supporting NSUN member group Make Space, which works around self-harm, to organise against issues in the Online Safety Bill relating to the criminalisation of self-harm related content online such as peer support and harm minimisation content which could be seen as 'encouraging' people to self-harm. We hosted an open letter following the publication of a critique of the Bill we had commissioned and published on our members' blog, and supported Make Space to do parliamentary lobbying work during the process of the passing of the Bill, including through giving Make Space funding for their time spent on the campaign, and connecting them to other useful organisations for legal support and advice on the parliamentary lobbying work such as drafting an amendment to the Bill. We commissioned and published a reflective follow-up piece about the process of the campaign.

Another membership project we supported was Self injury Support's intersectional experiences of self-harm research project, with a focus on the different needs of different groups of people in relation to self-injury. We made a grant to Self injury Support so that they could pay participants in research focus groups and are planning on supporting the production and dissemination of an external-facing communications output from the project, covering its findings and recommendations, in 24/25.

The period from April 2023 to March 2024 has been an exciting one for NSUN's work on mental health and migrant justice, funded by the Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust. During this time, we have moved from learning about existing work happening at this intersection to directly collaborating with grassroots groups in that space, thus achieving our 23/24 aim of creating a series of connective spaces for grassroots groups working on migrant justice and mental health.

By hosting a monthly Mental Health and Migrant Justice Networking Space, we have given grassroots migrant support organisations more opportunities to connect with each other, responding to a common problem identified during the scoping stage of this work. These monthly meetings have also allowed engaged groups to collectively draft an open letter to funders about the barriers they face to accessing grants for mental health and migrant justice work. With the contacts we've developed through these spaces, we're discussing other areas in which NSUN might be able to support them, such as improving communications and visibility.

NSUN has also strengthened its relationships with other organisations that are interested in both migrant and disability justice. We have joined the Disability and Migration Network and started a working relationship with Migrants' Rights Network, both of which will allow us to play a more active role in efforts to increase cross-movement solidarity.

We have continued to work on policy and campaigning issues in a variety of ways, focusing on four main priorities: challenging poor mental health care, political responses to mental health care, surveillance and data sharing in mental health, and resourcing grassroots groups.

During the year we reflected on our policy and campaigning work, rearticulated our policy priorities, redefined what we mean by impact and how we can measure it, and laid the groundwork for increased member involvement in policy and campaigning work. We have kept members and readers up to date on national policy developments; publishing briefings and statements on key issues relating to mental ill-health, distress, and trauma, including responding to Metropolitan Police's announcement that they will no longer attend mental health call outs, briefing on the Illegal Migration Bill, and publishing briefings on the Mental Health Act, including writing on the omission of Mental Health Act reforms from the King's Speech.

Over the year, we have taken part in many joint and coalitionary projects. Highlights include a chapter in Holding our Own: A guide to non-policing solutions to what is called 'serious youth violence', coordinated by Liberty, and a joint statement against transphobic healthcare policy announcements. We have supported members to campaign on issues that matter to them, including working with member organisations against the criminalisation of self-harm, jointly submitting written evidence to parliament. We have we have engaged grassroots/user-led groups on issues that matter to them, including through releasing three briefings on precarity, access, and mental health - the culmination of a two year consultation process with London based grassroots groups, funded by Trust for London.

With our policy manager moving to a new role in October 2023, we recruited a freelance survivor researcher to offer policy support, allowing our continued significant impact. We have subsequently been successful in bidding for funding from Trust for London to recruit a full-time Policy Manager position, which we expect to fill in the first half of 24/25.

Resourcing: Working with funders, and acting as a microfunder to redistribute resources to grassroots user-led groups and establish better practice

Early in 23/24 we analysed the reflective conversations with 27 recipients of the Sustaining Spaces Fund 2022. Key learnings included the benefits of having a brief written application and minimal reporting requirements, the importance of prioritising conversations and connections in our grants processes, and that small interventions have long-term impacts, but that wider change is needed.

The funding offered groups space and time to continue and develop their activities, as well as creating intangible benefits like opportunities, connection and stronger support networks. Many groups used the money for essential things that would outlast the grant spending period, like furniture, equipment or digital infrastructure, and some found that the process of applying for and using the grant was a useful learning exercise in and of itself. However, small grants are still small, and these groups are continually being put under more and more pressure through increasing demand and diminishing capacity. Larger amounts are necessary to develop long-term sustainability for these groups. This also requires that funders understand the impacts that user-led groups have and the unique roles they play in their communities.

Our evaluation made clear the need for small grants programmes; are we are committed to seeking funding to offering more grants opportunities in the future. We also used these insights to support North East Together in delivering a local small grants programme.

During this year we were able to offer a number of small grants to members around online event accessibility. In 23/24, we repeated our British Sign Language (BSL) interpretation small grants offering, making five grants of £150 available to user-led group NSUN members to pay for a BSL interpreter (or with the option of using the money to pay for a palantypist to provide live captions if that was preferred) at an event. As with the previous two years, all five grants were taken up by user-led mental health groups and used at events such as conferences, workshops, and creative performances.

With funding from City Bridge Trust via the Propel partnership, we carried out scoping work exploring how to build the resilience and sustainability of grassroots, lived experience led groups in London that work to support the mental health of those in their communities. We partnered with Teapot Collective to map some London-based groups and organisations, and carry out workshops and interviews. Based on what we heard, Teapot Collective drew up an internal report to help guide NSUN's future London-based work, an external summary sharing key findings, and resources for groups based on needs identified within the workshops, due to be published in summer 2024.

Throughout the year, NSUN made a range of training available for members by commissioning free places. These included: Community Organising (Act Build Change), Legal Structures for Community Organisations (Sistren Legal Collective), Safeguarding Training (Shaped Workshops), Trans Awareness Training (Gendered Intelligence), and Facilitation Training (Act Build Change).

Synergi

NSUN secured a three-year grant from Lankelly Chase to host Synergi, a complex and ambitious programme of work focusing on the intersection of racial justice and mental health, from April 2022. Synergi works with grassroots groups and community organisers, and connects, amplifies, celebrates and resources this work. This grant has a no-cost extension to September 2025.

The programme faced some staffing and other challenges during the first part of this year, one result of which was a delay to the grants programme. A new Synergi Director started in September 2023, which, along with additional staff joining the team, has resulted in significant progress now being made against the four agreed workstreams:

- i. Community Responses to Mental Health: working with grassroots groups to experiment with community-based mental health care. We participated in the NSUN's Members' Event, delivering a session on abolition and mental health. We also sponsored a table and attended the National Mikey Powell Memorial Family Fund (NMPMFF) event, held in partnership with INQUEST
- ii. Supporting Movement Spaces: working with grassroots groups to support movement building work. Monthly peer support spaces are held online every second Tuesday in the month, providing a free supportive space for people with lived experience of racism, working or volunteering in user-led peer groups or campaigning capacities. A series of monthly online embodiment sessions for grant holders was launched in June 23 and continued until December 23.
- iii. Grants Programme: running an annual grants programme and influencing funders to fund differently. Round 1 of the grant programme is now coming to an end. These grants were awarded in 2022/23 to groups led by Black people and people of colour with lived experience of mental ill-health, distress or trauma, to take action on mental health and racial justice. We have featured several blogs on our website to highlight the impact on the range of grantees, such as the York anti-racist collective.
 - Plans for round 2 of the grants scheme 'Democratising Policy' were developed, with the launch taking place just after the financial year ended, in April 2024. Eligibility and priority focus is having living experience of mental health settings, working at the intersection of mental health, disability, and racial justice, having been impacted by immigration detention and removal centres, and prisons and policing, including forensic mental health settings. There will also be a solidarity fund administered via 3 to 4 hubs across the U.K.
- iv. Remembrance as Resistance: a creative culmination of all the workstreams. Work is underway, with a podcast, and several events now being planned.

NSUN's rebrand

Over the past few years, NSUN has developed and changed as an organisation. Our new strategic direction and ways of working have grounded us as an organisation that aims to facilitate change through connection and collaboration, and through amplifying and resourcing the work of the individuals and groups in our network, and we are surer of the unique space(s) we occupy, as well as the spaces that we do not occupy. To reflect this, we felt it was time to refresh our 'brand', which we did in 2023. We commissioned illustrator Cherie Kwok to create a new logo, colour palette, and illustrations/graphics that feature on our website, social media channels, and other materials.

We are confident that the new visual identity better reflects our new direction and is hopeful, vibrant, warm, and engaging. It is reflective of our position as a unique and less 'traditional' charity with a grassroots focus, steering clear of overly polished modern corporate/charity branding which can feel generic and characterless. We are also pleased that the new visual identity avoids stereotypical mental health imagery and symbols, which emphasises that we are not a single-issue organisation, and means that our visual identity does not reinforce simplistic representations of mental health.

Our new visual identity was commissioned to reflect some of the following ideas around the nature of our work: connection, community, care, mutual aid, collectivity, solidarity, movement building, change, and justice. The illustrations in particular were commissioned to embody a sense of joy and hope — something that many user-led groups and collectives in the movement-building and transformative justice space hold onto and try to centre.

Key aims 2024/25

NSUN's key aims for the next year include the following:

- To continue to promote and amplify members' perspectives, voices and campaigns
- To secure funds for a new NSUN grants scheme, and plan the implementation process
- To successfully induct the new substantive CEO, Mandy Crandale, who joins NSUN in June 2024
- To deliver the rearticulated policy priorities, including via the successful recruitment of a new Policy Manager and launch of a newly funded project looking at how to engage with member campaigns
- To successfully deliver round 2 of the Synergi grant scheme
- To secure new multi-year funding to achieve additional sustainable impact

Financial review

Income for the year ended 31st March 2024 totalled £970,203 (2023: £864,417), an increase of £105,786 from the previous year. The largest area of increase was in Grants and Donations which rose by £116,079 compared with the previous year.

NSUN's principal source of funds during 2023-4 was income from grants and totalled £888,793 (2023: £773,320) and comprises 92% of income (2023: 89%).

Expenditure totaled £759,013 (2023: £704,954) for the year ended 31st March 2024, an increase of £54,059 compared with the previous year.

In April 2024 NSUN was notified of a successful application to the National Lottery Community Fund for £499,337 over 3 years.

NUSN is hugely grateful to our range of funders and supporters who contribute to our income.

Total funds, reserves policy and going concern

Total funds at 31st March 2024 were £525,811 (2023: £314,621) and comprised restricted funds of £385,087 (2023: £217,093) and unrestricted funds of £140,724 (2023: £97,528). The largest remaining restricted funds comprise funding for the Synergi programme (£297,857).

Unrestricted funding was comprised of funding from a number of unrestricted grants towards project and core costs in the 2023/24 financial year of £82,308, and unrestricted income from donations and contracts.

The Trustees review the charity's reserves policy annually and aim to hold three months of fixed staff and running costs plus other specific amounts in relation to: staff redundancy entitlement, provision to cover any unexpected key staff sickness, provisions against unsecured consultancy income and provision against the unrestricted grants, whose balances form part of the unrestricted reserves but where there is an expectation they will be used to fund costs in the coming year and not held as contingency reserves. As such the agreed reserves target is £139,143 (2023: £170,780). The actual free unrestricted reserves are £137,053 (2023: £70,453) including £56,973 (2023: £56,848) in relation to unrestricted grants to be used in the coming year. This represents 98% of target (2023: 33%).

The Trustees have reviewed the budgets for the 2024/25 financial year, including reserves and secured income and consider there to be sufficient funding secured to prepare these financial statements on a going concern basis.

Grantmaking Policy

NSUN's grantmaking policy is specific to the funds being distributed and is in line with the conditions of the funder. The Trustees consider micro-grants an effective means of achieving NSUN's charitable objectives of building capacity for user-led groups.

NSUN grants are awarded to groups in England, and are currently small in volume and value. There are plans to secure further funding for this work and advertise grant more widely in the future.

The Synergi grants programme launched in April 2024 with clear published criteria, including transparency around decision-making and panel membership.

North East together ran a small grants programme with published criteria open from November 2023 to January 2024, with decisions about awards made by committee members following reviews of applications.

Key Risks and Uncertainty

The Trustees regularly review the principal risks and major uncertainties to which the charity may be exposed and systems and procedures have been established to manage those risks. This is primarily via the NSUN risk register, which is reviewed by Trustees at least quarterly. The register lists the key risks together with a score calculated based on the probability and the potential impact of the risk concerned, noting any mitigation. A separate Synergi Risk Register is also shared and discussed as a standing item, due to the size and complexity of Synergi as a hosted project, and the associated risks. Actions being taken to manage the identified risks are listed on the registers.

Key risks identified during the year are:

- A gap between funding expenditure and income targets, mitigated initially through the submission of multiple funding applications
- Significant changes in leadership at board and staff level, following an unsuccessful recruitment to the CEO post in summer 2023, and a change in chair of trustees at the end of December 2024. This risk has dissipated following the appointment of consecutive interim chief executives, and the appointment of a permanent chief executive from June 2024

- The growth of the organization and the increased responsibility and pressures on key staff. Risk is mitigated by NSUN's agreed ways of working, by extended notice periods for staff, regular supervision and on-going consideration of well-being issues
- The on-going integration of Synergi into NSUN, and Synergi's own delivery risks, noting the size of the programme. This has been mitigated through clear governance protocols, confirmation of Synergi's strategic direction, and the provision of a separate Synergi risk register to NSUN trustees and the Synergi governance board.

Contribution made by volunteers

NSUN is extremely grateful to all of our volunteers, many of whom have provided considerable pro-bono support, valued at £49,903 (2023: £20,523) and included within the financial statements. In the year ended March 2024 this related to pro-bono legal support.

Structure Governance and Management

During the year, the National Survivor User Network (NSUN) was a Charitable Incorporated Organisation (CIO) with charity number 1135980. NSUN's governing document is a Constitution and the charity operates in England.

Trustees are elected at the Annual General Meeting or co-opted onto the Board when a serving Trustee resigns during the year. The Constitution states that the minimum number of Trustees should be three and the maximum twelve. A third of trustees must retire at each AGM and may be reappointed.

Skills gaps at Board level are addressed by regular skills audits. New Trustees are inducted by the Chair, Vice-Chair, and CEO, and are offered training as necessary.

The Board meets at least five times a year.

Day-to-day management of the charity has been delegated to the CEO. The CEO is supported by staff, consultants ("Associates") and volunteers, if applicable, and a scheme of delegation is in place.

Organisational Structure and Key Management Personnel

The CEO reports to the Chair of NSUN, who is responsible for convening Board meetings and ensuring correct governance of the charity with other Trustees. The Chair is also responsible forappraising the performance of the CEO and Trustees.

During the year, there were ten other members of staff who are line managed and appraised by the CEO, or other Managers within the team. The staff team was supported by several freelance associates.

Following an unsuccessful recruitment process in summer 2023, interim chief executives were appointed. A successful process early in 2024 resulted in the appointment of a new substantive CEO, appointed to start at NSUN in June 2024.

The Board makes use of task and finish groups and sub committees where needed to undertake specific tasks. In 2023/24 a number of trustees met informally to review the finance papers, and to support the CEO recruitment processes.

The Board was also supported in its work around the Synergi Project by the Synergi Governance Board, which comprised five members with a specific interest in the work, including one member of the NSUN Board of Trustees. The Governance Board operates under a terms of reference approved by the NSUN Board.

The SORP considers the key management personnel of the charity to be those persons having authority and responsibility for planning, directing and controlling the activities of the charity, directly or indirectly. The Trustees consider that the NSUN Board of Trustees and the CEO are Key Management Personnel of the charity.

The pay of the CEO is reviewed annually by the Chair and benchmarked to similar posts within the sector.

Details of Trustee expenses and related party transactions are disclosed in the notes to the financial statements. Trustees are required to disclose all relevant interests and register them with the CEO and, in accordance with the charities policy, withdraw from decisions where a conflict of interest arises.

Trustees' responsibilities in relation to the financial statements

A resolution proposing that Beever and Struthers be re-appointed as independent examiners of the charity was passed at the last NSUN Annual General Meeting on the 28th February 2023.

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the accounting policies set out in notes to the financial statements and comply with the charity's governing document, the Charities Act 2011 as amended by the Charities Act 2022 and Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their financial statements in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland published in October 2019.

This report was approved by the Board of Trustees on 17th July 2024 and was signed on its behalf, by:

Amy Rushton Chair

National Survivor User Network Independent Examiner's Report to the Trustees of National Survivor User Network

I report to the charity trustees on my examination of the financial statements of the charity for the year ended 31 March 2024 which are set out on pages 17 to 36.

Responsibilities and basis of report

As the charity's trustees you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the requirements of the Charities Act 2011 as amended by the Charities Act 2022 ('the Act'). I report in respect of my examination of the charity's accounts carried out under section 145 of the Act and in carrying out my examination I have followed all the applicable Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the Act.

Other Matters

Your attention is to drawn to the fact that the charity has prepared the financial statements in accordance with the Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to Charities 2019 preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) in preference to the Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice issued on 1 April 2005 which is referred to in the extant regulations but has been withdrawn.

We understand that this has been done in order for the accounts to provide a true and fair view in accordance with UK Generally Accepted Accounting Practice.

Independent examiner's statement

Since the company's gross income exceeded £250,000 your examiner must be a member of a body listed in section 145 of the 2011 Act. I confirm that I am qualified to undertake the examination because I am a member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales which is one of the listed bodies.

I have completed my examination. I confirm that no material matters have come to my attention in connection with the examination giving me cause to believe that in any material respect:

- 1. accounting records were not kept in respect of the charity as required by section 130 of the Act; or
- 2. the accounts do not accord with those records; or
- 3. the accounts do not comply with the applicable requirements concerning the form and content of accounts set out in the Charities (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 other than any requirement that the accounts give a 'true and fair view' which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination.

National Survivor User Network Independent Examiner's Report to the Trustees of National Survivor User Network

I have no concerns and have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in this report in order to enable a proper understanding of the financial statements to be reached.

1. Basis of Preparation

1.a Basis of Accounting

The financial statements have been prepared to give a 'true and fair' view and have departed from the Charities (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 only to the extent required to provide a 'true and fair view'. This departure has involved following the 2019 version of the Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their financial statements in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) rather than the Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice effective from 1 April 2005 which has since been withdrawn.

1.b Legal Form

National Survivor User Network was a charitable company incorporated in England under the Companies Act 2006 from 1 April 2022 to 6 June 2023, when it then converted to a Charitable Incorporated Organisation. In the event of the charity being wound up, the liability in respect of the guarantee is limited to £10 per member of the charity. The address of the registered office is 150 Minories, London, EC3N 1LS. The charity's operations and principal activities are included on page 2 and 3 of the Trustees' annual report.

Going Concern

The financial statements are prepared on a going concern basis. The Trustees have looked at least 12 months from the signing date of these accounts, considering the charity's cost base, reserves and secured funding and have concluded that there are no material uncertainties around the charity's ability to continue as a going concern.

1.d Accounting Policies

The accounts present a true and fair view and the accounting policies adopted are those outlined in note 2. The financial statements are presented in sterling which is the functional currency of the charity and rounded to the nearest £.

1.e Significant accounting estimates and judgements

Aside from going concern set out in 1c above, there have been no other key estimates or judgements required in determining the carrying values of assets and liabilities.

2. Accounting Policies

Income

2.a Recognition of income

Income is included in the Statement of Financial Activities (SoFA) when the charity becomes entitled to the resources; it is more likely than not that the trustees will receive the resources; and the monetary value can be measured with sufficient reliability.

2.b There has been no offsetting of assets and liabilities, or income and expenses, unless required or permitted by the FRS 102 SORP.

2.c Grants and donations

Grants and donations are only included in the SoFA when the general income recognition criteria are met, generally upon receipt.

Where grants are of a performance related nature, income is only be recognised to the extent that the charity has provided the specified goods or services as entitlement to the grant only occurs when the performance related conditions are met.

2.d Government grants

The charity has received government grants in the reporting period and these are disclosed in note 3a.

2.e Tax reclaims on donations and gifts

Gift Aid receivable is included in income when there is a valid declaration from the donor. Any Gift Aid amount recovered on a donation is considered to be part of that gift and is treated as an addition to the same fund as the initial donation unless the donor or the terms of the appeal have specified otherwise.

2.f Contractual income

This is only included in the SoFA once the charity has provided the related goods or services or met the performance related conditions.

2.g Donated goods and services/facilities

Gifts in kind for use by the charity are included in the SoFA as income from donations when receivable. Donated goods are measured at fair value (the amount for which the asset could be exchanged) unless impractical to do so.

Donated services and facilities are included in the SoFA when received at the value of the gift to the charity provided the value of the gift can be measured reliably.

Donated services and facilities that are consumed immediately are recognised as income with an equivalent amount recognised as an expense under the appropriate heading in the SoFA.

2.h Volunteer help

The value of any voluntary help received is not included in the accounts but is described in the trustees' annual report.

Expenditure

2.i Liability recognition

Liabilities are recognised where it is more likely than not that there is a legal or constructive obligation committing the charity to pay out resources and the amount of the obligation can be measured with reasonable certainty.

2.j Allocation of governance and support costs

Support costs represent indirect charitable expenditure. In order to carry out the primary purposes of the charity it is necessary to provide support in the form of personnel development and support, financial support, insurances and IT support.

Governance costs comprise the costs involving the public accountability of the charity (including independent examination costs) and costs in respect of its compliance with regulation and good practice.

Support costs including governance costs are apportioned based on the proportion of time spent on each activity by staff.

Assets and Liabilities

2.I Accrued and deferred income

Accrued income relates to gift aid receivable only.

Deferred income relates to contract income received where a proportion of the work remains incomplete.

2.m Debtors

Debtors (including trade debtors and loans receivable) are measured on initial recognition at settlement amount after any trade discounts or amount advanced by the charity.

Subsequently, they are measured at the cash or other consideration expected to be received.

2.n Creditors

The charity has creditors which are measured at settlement amounts less any trade discounts.

2.o Bank and Cash

Cash includes cash held in the charity's bank accounts, amounts held by PayPal and Equals Money.

2.p Tangible fixed assets for use by the charity

Tangible fixed assets represent computer equipment and are capitalised if they can be used for more than one year, and cost at least £250. They are valued at cost. Assets are depreciated over 4 years on a straight-line basis.
